

At Sotpot, we combine traditional Korean cooking with healthy, modern dining. The name "Sotpot" comes from the word "Sot," meaning "pot," which represents warmth, nourishment, and homemade meals. Our dishes, from rice to soups, are made with care to give you a tasty and healthy experience.

Our signature Sotbap (술밥) shows the deep history of Korean food. This rice dish, once a luxury for the wealthy, represents abundance and care. Each serving comes with traditional Korean toppings, offering a mix of textures and flavour that stay true to the roots of Korean cooking while promoting health.

We also specialise in Phyunbaek Jjim (편백찜)—a dish of steamed meat and vegetables cooked in a cypress wood box. This method removes extra fat, making it a healthier option without losing flavour. It's rich in nutrients and free of unnecessary calories, perfect for those who want to eat mindfully. Steaming helps keep the natural flavour fresh and clean.

At Sotpot, we believe good food should nourish both your body and soul. Our menu is made to not only taste great but also support a healthy lifestyle. We use fresh, clean ingredients in every dish, making sure our meals help you feel your best. Whether you're looking for a filling meal or a lighter dish, our food blends flavour and health.

Join us for a dining experience where tradition and care come together, and each meal helps you feel healthier and more energised.
